Jann Cather Weaver, Roger Wedell : Imaging the Word: An Arts and Lectionary Resource, Vol. 1 before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Imaging the Word: An Arts and Lectionary Resource, Vol. 1:

They offer artistic interpretation to the Scriptures that will inform and deepen the preacher's sermons and inspire worship leaders. Both books confirm my belief that artists can be some of the best exegetes of Scripture. Congratulations to Grant Spradling, Jann Cather Weaver, Sharon Iverson Gouwens, Catherine O'Callaghan, and Kenneth T. Lawrence on three stunning, beautiful works. 8 of 8 people found the following review helpful. Excellent lectionary resource By M. J. Smith One side-effect of the common lectionary used by Catholics, Episcopalians, Lutheran, and various mainstream Protestant churches is the development of some excellent lectionary based resources. (A lectionary contains the Biblical readings for a given Sunday). This series of three volumes for the three year lectionary cycle (each year concentrates on a synoptic Gospel - Matthew, Mark or Luke) contains music, poetry, art, etc. that in some way reflect on the Scripture for a given Sunday. The volumes are carefully multicultural. An example: for the first Sunday in Advent, there are photos by Paul Chesley, David Austen and Dennis Oda; excerpts from Robert A. Raines and Joseph Wood Krutch; poetry by Dom Helder Camara and Thomas John Carlisle; and a detail from art by Naul Ojeda. Each Sunday is equally diverse. You should always be able to find something that meets your needs and/or challenges you to reconsider your needs. Highly recommended. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. I MUST like it. By Rikasmom Have had forever! I MUST like it.
