is a good look from the inside. Many books don't do it, and if they do it's from one source. Here's it's from multiple sources, and by reading it you'll learn a lot.

Straight talk from Americas top hiring managers and recruiters about how to succeed in any job market. The authors asked top HR, staffing, and recruitment professionals, along with the managers who make the hiring decisions at the most sought-after companies, to tell them what makes a job candidate stand out to them. Their responses are woven into seven "how-to" chapters that each focus on a different aspect of job search. This book compiles the diverse opinions of many people to "humanize and simplify the concept of job search." Key Features: *The only book on the market that focuses specifically on the advice of hiring managers and HR executives the people whose opinions really count when it comes to getting hired! *Quantified results from a uniform survey of interviewees give hard numbers to back up opinions about the best strategies for getting hired fast. *Advice for planning your own job search strategy. *"In This Chapter" boxes at the beginning of each chapter summarize the main points of each experts advice.

The advice from other professionals sets this book apart from many others. -- Angel Huffman-Labbe, Service Manager/Vocational Evaluator, Easter Seals New Jersey The experts stories provide readers with a feel for what hiring authorities need from job seekers today. -- Patrice Waidner, career counselor The job search strategies from top managers were most informative. The book gives the reader (and teacher) a different slant. -- Ellen Hinton, Director of Grants and External Funding, Bossier Parish Community College This book provides job seekers with significant insight from professionals and managers that make hiring decisions every day. -- Doug Hardin, Senior Vice President, IntelliDyne LLC What I like about this book is that it makes a panel of experts available to the reader. -- Daphne Moran, Information Technology Systems Specialist II, Columbia Basin College, Pasco, WA
