Hamid Naficy : Iran Media Index (Bibliographies and Indexes in World History) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Iran Media Index (Bibliographies and Indexes in World History):

Book by Naficy, Hamid

"Lists 3,539 documentary films, videotapes, filmstrips, newsreels, and news broadcasts on the subject of Iran from 1902 to 1981. ...a valuable piece of research for filmmakers and scholars in showing what American, European, and Iranian audiences have been shown about Iran over an 80-year period. ... Recommended for large media centers and libraries with collections in Middle East studies, journalism, or film production."-Choice... "this work is a comprehensive, descriptively annotated index of films, filmstrips and television news produced in English-speaking countries in this century through 1981. ... Naficy has brought together a massive amount of information in a compact but legible format. Users in large public, academic and special libraries will find it invaluable and other public and secondary school libraries may find it useful for program and curriculum planning. A work of distinction."-Reference Books Bulletin?Lists 3,539 documentary films, videotapes, filmstrips, newsreels, and news broadcasts on the subject of Iran from 1902 to 1981. ...a valuable piece of research for filmmakers and scholars in showing what American, European, and Iranian audiences have been shown about Iran over an 80-year period. ...
