Even though jobs are plenty, as a new grad we always read in the headlines, "No New Grads" , "New Grads Are Not Eligible." I felt disheartened and almost desperate because I had spent 4 years trying to get accepted into a nursing school (an almost impossible job of its own), as well as making it through grueling nursing school itself (I love nursing, but nursing school is beyond difficult).So, I graduated top of my class, and NO ONE WILL HIRE ME. Not even a phone call. If I was lucky, I would get a rejection letter and was at least informed. At this time, I needed some help and advice. I was recommended this book by a friend, and am happy to say it was this author's advice that helped me land the job. I followed his advice almost to the "T". I not only ended up landing a job that required at least 1 year's experience in its job requirements (with no experience), but I landed my dream job in the department I wanted. Lastly, I got the job I wanted in less than 2 months. Some of my classmates having been searching for over two years.

Everyone deserves to have a job where they naturally thrive.
