

[Read free] Job Search In Academe: How to Get the Position You Deserve

Job Search In Academe: How to Get the Position You Deserve

Dawn M. Formo, Cheryl Reed

**Download PDF / ePub / DOC / audiobook / ebooks*

Download

Read Online

#2675379 in Books 2011-03-07Original language:EnglishPDF # 1 8.90 x .80 x 5.90l, .85 #File Name: 1579221343268 pages | File size: 16.Mb

Dawn M. Formo, Cheryl Reed : Job Search In Academe: How to Get the Position You Deserve before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Job Search In Academe: How to Get the Position You Deserve:

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. How to access the online appendix materials?By C^3I would like to access the appendix materials online, but have had problems. The publisher website ([...]) does not seem to work properly.

Building on the success of the first, this new edition has been updated to cover the latest hiring trends, changing economic circumstances, and feedback from readers. The authors have expanded the book to deal with issues faced by minority candidates, and have added contributions from scientists to cover such issues as negotiating faculty contracts to ensure adequate lab space and resources. They give more emphasis to applying for non-academic jobs and offer case study scenarios of candidates who have followed both academic and non academic paths. The authors urge readers to go develop a philosophy statement for research and service, as well as for teaching. They explain what's involved in applying for joint positions, offer advice on applying for administrative jobs outside the academy, and prepare the reader for first year academic and corporate performance reviews. They have updated the resources, references, examples and scenarios. This book covers the process for Masters- and Ph.D.-level job-seekers of all disciplines: from identifying sources of information about positions, to advising on the preparation of effective CVs and portfolios, through guidance on the process of interview to final negotiation of terms. Its invaluable advice is informed by the authors' experiences in both academic and corporate arenas, as well as by the narratives of current and recent job seekers. The authors cover the full spectrum of potential positions: adjunct, visiting, temporary and tenure-track faculty appointments at year and 2-year institutions. This book includes sample application letters and vitae, a model for job search workshop, and a rich list of resources both in print and on-line. An accompanying Web site offers a wealth of information on locating job postings, complete with hot links to major sites, both general and discipline-specific; presents eight sample application packets by successful humanities, social sciences, and sciences candidates, with accompanying comments on key features by the book's authors; and an extensive listing of useful books and online resources. While being realistic about the trends in higher education, the decline in tenure-track positions, and greater competition for available positions, the authors actively combat the gloom and doom approach of competing books by emphasizing that readers have it in their power to adopt strategies, and take actions and choices, that can greatly improve their chances of success. The authors aim to help candidates see what they already have and how to get that across as clearly as possible to potential hiring committees. Contact the Authors: Share your story! We hope to continue collecting timely narratives to keep Job Search useful, and we welcome your e-mails. Dawn can be reached at dformo@csusm.edu and Cheryl at drcreed@catsforchange.org. We also welcome the opportunity to offer job search workshops and individual coaching in person and online.

"As an updated edition of a 1999 title, this book takes an account of the vast changes along the path to employment over the past dozen years. It is a handbook for those who have masters or doctoral degrees in hand and are in need of a first job or of a new one, either within academe or outside its walls. The book carries the prospective employee from writing the CV to negotiating the contract and on to doing the hiring. This edition adds advice for minority candidates and job seekers in the sciences." (Diverse Issues in Higher Education) "With a great deal of wit, with a whole lot of common sense, Dawn Formo and Cheryl Reed have produced a handbook which will be invaluable to job seekers." (Ross Winterowd) "This extremely savvy guide to the academic job search and application, interviewing, and negotiation process really works. It just helped my son land a tenure-track position in a major university." (Planning/Communications on the first edition) About the Author Dawn M. Formo is Associate Dean, College of Arts and Sciences and Associate Professor, Literature and Writing at California State University, San Marcos Cheryl Reed is Assistant Professor, English, Communications, and World Languages, San Diego Miramar College.