Dandi Daley Mackall : Kids are Still Saying the Darndest Things before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Kids are Still Saying the Darndest Things:

The kids of today speak with a confidence born of their tender years, and Dandi Daley Mackall captures all the excitement, all the joyfulness, and all the wisdom of these kids while discussing such subjects as Politics, How to Fix Absolutely Everything, When I Grow Up, and Home Sweet Home. Every parent, every grandparent, and anyone who has ever been a kid will treasure this collection!

From BooklistBased on the old book by Art Linkletter--which, in turn, was based on his TV show--these kid quotes were solicited in interviews with children, parents, and grandparents. The kids MacKall interviewed explained that the Fourth of July is the day to celebrate freedom from school and Veterans Day is the day the dogs go to the veteran. They also explained the difference between rich and poor, what hell is like, the geography of the U.S., and how they'd run the place given the chance. Most comments are amusing, some are poignant. Only a few are side-splitting and unforgettable. An entertaining volume but not essential for every collection. Denise Perry Donavin
